One Platform, Unlimited Ways to Work ✦

A live monday.com demo with Mark Anley and Cyrielle Caudrelier of Green Llamas

Whether you lead a team, run your own business or are steering your next career move, keeping track of everything can feel like a full-time job. In this live session, we'll show how one flexible platform can bring clarity to the way you work. Rather than a generic product tour, the demo walks through four real scenarios built around the Elles Collective community.

What You'll See

Corporate Executives & Managers

Track team projects and priorities, build leadership-ready reporting and balance workload across your team.

Women in Career Transition

Run your job search as a pipeline: applications, follow-ups, networking contacts and interviews in one place.

Solopreneurs & Freelancers

A light CRM for leads and clients, plus client projects, deadlines and content planning, all managed on your own.

Business Owners with a Team

Delegate and assign tasks, standardize processes like onboarding and recurring workflows, and keep everyone aligned.

We'll close with open Q&A, so bring your questions. No monday.com experience needed.

Meet the Speakers

Mark Anley

Founder & Practice Lead, Green Llamas

Mark Anley is the founder of Green Llamas. Born and raised in Ontario, Canada, he began his career in IT as a developer and database design specialist, where he learned how good systems take the friction out of everyday work. Mark worked as an IT Director for various firms in Canada while continuing to grow his experience in the SaaS space. Mark was introduced to monday.com in 2017 and started Green Llamas in 2019; the team has since helped 500+ businesses and trained 7,000+ employees.

Mark is married with two children, aged 17 and 14. His wife Erin is an entrepreneur with a background in herbal supplements and photography so he has seen firsthand what it takes to juggle a business, a career and a family, and why the right tools matter. Erin avidly uses monday.com to manage her lines of business.

Cyrielle Caudrelier

Sr. Systems Architect, Green Llamas

Born and raised in France, Cyrielle studied in Paris and began her career at L'Oréal. She worked there on global education programs reaching thousands of professionals across several countries. In 2016 she moved to the United States, where she has spent the past decade leading operations, projects, and digital transformations. She is fluent in French and English and works comfortably in both.

Today Cyrielle is a Sr. Systems Architect at Green Llamas, helping teams across industries replace scattered spreadsheets and disconnected tools with clear, connected systems. She is monday.com certified in Work Management and CRM, and her wider toolkit includes automation and integration platforms. She holds an MBA and is a Certified ScrumMaster.
